

Fruit salad

Today I spend some time in the garden. I check each corner.
Barker has been here! He has made wee-wee at the garden door.
The flowers are stinking!
I have a nap under the apple tree.
Ouch! Apples fall on my head!

I go to the garage.
What's this smell?
I think, I have a look inside ...
There is a big basket full of fruit.
They need fresh air! It stinks!
I take an orange and bring it outside. I put it under a bush.
Then I take a lemon that looks like a football.
Next is a green pear and then a banana.
One by one I carry all fruit outside:
strawberries, plums, grapes, peaches, cherries ... – even a big pineapple!
I put them everywhere under trees, bushes, and flowers.
That looks beautiful!
I am an artist.
Mary and Rick will be proud of me.

Now I am tired. I need a nap ...
“Gilbert! Where are you? Come in!”
Mary, I'm coming! It's dinner time!
Ouch! I have fallen onto my nose!
What's this in the grass?
Oh, yes, I put the fruit everywhere.
“Hey, Grandpa Gilbert! What's wrong?”
Hoho, Grandma Mary.
What's wrong with you? Are you tired?
I hear Rick calling: “Darling, what happened? Are you okay?”
Ooooops ... Why do Mary and Rick kiss the floor?

Of course! They love my work so much; they must have a closer look!

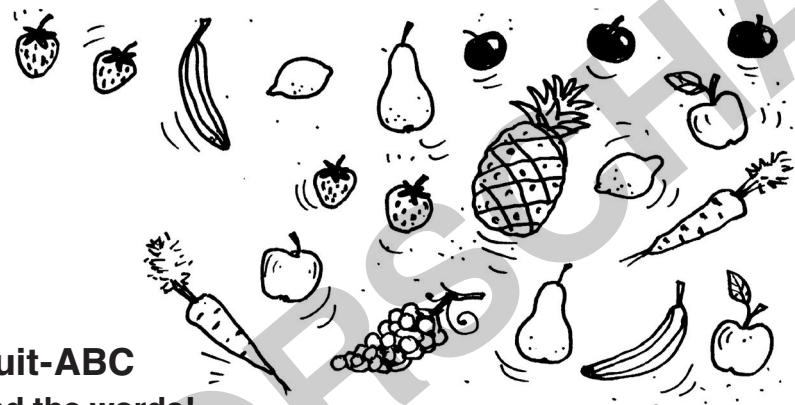

Vocabulary:

artist – der Künstler
darling – Liebling already – schon proud – stolz
nap – das Nickerchen work – die Arbeit, das Werk have a closer look – genauer hinsehen

A dog's day

My day is long.

At six o'clock the alarm-clock rings. Mary gets up.
Rick hides under his blanket. So do I – under Ricks blanket.

I think he doesn't like it, because he gets up quickly.

He gets dressed. Mary makes breakfast.

I go downstairs. She lets me out into the garden.

At quarter past six Rick comes downstairs.

Mary goes upstairs to get dressed.

Then Rick lays the table.

At half past six Rick walks the dog.

We go down the street and I make wee-wee.

He wants me to make a heap.

I can't. I have already hidden it under the mulberry bush in our garden.

When we come back home it is seven o'clock.

Then we all have breakfast.

At half past seven Rick leaves.

Mary goes to school half an hour later.

Now I sit in the house till quarter to one.

Everybody has fun – except for me!

At half past one Mary comes home for lunch.

After lunch we take a nap.

At about half past two we go for a long walk.

At four o'clock I eat a bone and Mary does her homework.

At quarter to five she makes tea and sandwiches.

Rick will be at home at five o'clock.

Rick and Mary have tea time.

I lie under the table with my bone.

That is cosy! I love it.

At quarter past seven we all go out.

We check the village.

At quarter past eight we come home.

We eat a little bit and I sleep while Mary and Rick watch TV or play nice games ...
